The use of a cotton flocked swab to collect a prostate specimen for a semen analysis. The aim of this study was to compare the validity and reliability of two devices for the collection of prostate samples for a semen analysis. We hypothesised that a cotton flocked swab would give a reliable specimen for the collection of prostate fluid for a semen analysis. The reliability and validity of the test device was evaluated against a gold standard and a theoretical specimen. One hundred men were recruited into the study. The cotton swab method was the standard test and the standard method was defined by the National Center for Health Statistics (NCHS) (taken at home). The device method and the theoretical method consisted of obtaining a specimen at home and then submitting it to the laboratory for analysis by a registered nurse in a well-equipped laboratory. The cotton swab was found to be the most reliable, producing a 51.0% (95% confidence interval (CI) 47.7% to 54.3%) agreement with the gold standard. The cotton swab was also shown to have a high specificity of 96.9% (95% CI 95.4% to 98.4%). The device method had a lower specificity of 92.4% (95% CI 89.5% to 94.4%) and a lower sensitivity of 76.4% (95% CI 72.3% to 80.5%).

However, the device method had the lowest number of false positives (7.4%) and the highest negative predictive value (86.6%). A cotton flocked swab is a suitable device for the collection of prostate fluid. Last year, following a dispute over advertisements for a

QR Customizer Pro is a user-friendly and powerful piece of software that can help design unique QR codes for different businesses or personal use. It can open a URL or phone number, redirect someone to an app's download page or PayPal website, or display a business card. Display text or a contact card and open a PayPal donation or payment page. The interface is well-organized and easy-to-use, divided into a preview area, properties panel (geometry, logo, colors), and QR code categories (URL, text, PayPal, mail). To begin, simply select the QR code type and start designing it. The code is automatically displayed once you entered a text or a link. Send emails and text messages to friends. The code can lead you to an external or PayPal website, send an SMS to a specific number or an email to a friend or company. Plus, you have the option to create a code that opens a business card that can display a few general details, such as full name, company title, URL and address. Open a particular location or coordinates in Google Maps. A nice touch is the ability to load a Google map address and coordinates, as well as select the map type and zoom level. For the PayPal, you need to enter a few personal details, like email, currency, payment type (sale, donation), item name, price, quantity and shipping costs. Apply effects and insert logos, patterns or pictures. From the properties panel, QR Customizer Pro lets you adjust the code's size, border, and shadow's transparency and blur, as well as change the background and foreground colors. Plus, you have the option to insert and edit a custom logo and image from the computer, and apply patterns, effects and frames. Export the result as a PNG image. You can paint on the QR code using the brush, erase mistakes and fill specific areas with colors. The code can only be exported as a PNG image. Feature-rich and modern QR code creator. On an ending note, QR Customizer Pro is a useful application designed to help you make and generate various QR codes that can redirect you to a particular website, a PayPal donation page, display a business card or send an SMS or email to someone.
