Volcano's eruption leaves trails of moisture, ash across Costa Rica LAS VEGAS – An angry volcano spewed lava and ash out of its crater as tremors from the ground's crust continued to shake even as small earthquakes continued for several more days Saturday. The Costa Rican government halted traffic on some roads and closed airports and seaports, while warning of the possibility of more quakes, dust and mud in the next few days. The ash has drifted as far away as Nicaragua, Honduras and Mexico, the government said, while a reading over a nearby bay picked up its presence. Authorities sent aircraft out to monitor the situation. The Costa Rican Institute of Civil Protection said conditions were changing rapidly because of the flow from the Souf
