XSkin 3 is a small and easy-to-use tool which allows you to apply different skins to ASC. This zip file includes a Read Me Text, an XSkin exe program and One Skin. This program is especially useful for Windows 95, 98, ME and NT4. After downloading, extract the contents of the zip file to your desktop. Double click on the XSkin.exe file and this easy-to-use software will launch. Click on the menu option [Explorer] > [Tools] > [Options]. The [Options] window should be displayed. Click on [Skin Management] and then [Restore Skin] Enter an Administrator password if prompted, and click [OK]. The program should then ask you to select a skin to be applied. Simply press [Enter] and select the skin you wish to apply (on top of the skin default screen). Click on [Apply] The XSkin for Advanced SystemCare3 Torrent Download will then load the selected skin and you should now see the appearance of the skin. If there are any problems you can use the menu options [Help] > [Troubleshooting] to view a list of known problems, or [Help] > [FAQ] to view a list of frequently asked questions. --- If you would like to contact me if you have any questions or problems, please feel free to email me at ckfc@suvtechnologies.comQ: Intercepting JavaScript code being run in the browser Does anyone know of a way (in JavaScript, but would be interested in anything that could be used to do this) to intercept and alter any JavaScript code that is running in the browser? As an example, I want to gather statistics on visitors to a website that I run, and I know I will never be able to alter the visitor's code, so I would like to be able to scan the visitor's code when it's run and create my own script to do the same thing (and avoid the overhead of a simple HTTP request). Are there any other ways that I could achieve this? A: You can use the firebug debugger extension in Firefox to watch/recall/rewrite/edit JavaScript scripts as they run. This is obviously very limited, but you might be able to use it to intercept and modify the normal page's JavaScript as it runs. A: You're probably aa67ecbc25
