Description of the costume: You're a time guardian who protects the timeline from events that can change history and bring it to a conclusion that is not what has been intended by the original plan of creation. If you're not going to intervene in the timeline, than you are a crazy person who cuts short the existence of the people that you are supposed to protect. If you want to cut short the existence of the people that you are supposed to protect, than you are a crazy person who tries to stop the Flow of Time! This time guardian costume is based on the old time guardian. In the past, the time guardian resided in a domain from the past and in a vast network that was called the "Archive of the Past", and they were also called the "Forces of Time". Because of their work in the time guardians were eternally tortured and chained. However, they could not die unless their physical bodies had been locked in different time domains and given new bodies. - Doors - Your character has a high-tech stealth suit that will bring us, placed on your character's upper half, that will also have a dimmed light and will provide a special material, placing a retractable barrier that may be cloaked in the shapes of other characters (previously known as the "cloak of the shadows"). - The weapon - A time dominator, that has the distinction of being able to change the course of time by pulling on it and returning it to the past, in the configuration that you deem the most appropriate, and can change the

IMAGE DETAILS Image size 1800x2171px 2.88 MB Show MoreQ: Full Width Menu content I want to have 1 containing all the menu items, that is to say not have the borders however if something is too long to fit then I want that to be off screen, also have something centered. basically I have and using css, I want the width of both elements to be 100% and whatever the longest menu-item is to shrink to fit or not be visible completely, also have a center element like this Centered menu A: All you need to do is set text-align: center on your ul and then you can set the width as you want. Anything left is your left side, and everything inside will need to be set just a bit outside the right edge of your wrapper div. Here's the fiddle: I've also made the ul a bit wider and it acts as the button.
